Can solar panels be installed on a factory roof?

The roofs of factories are often the ideal place to install solar panels. As factories are energy-intensive buildings, installing a solar PV system on the roof of a factory ensures free power can be generated to run everything underneath it.

Do you need planning permission to install solar panels on your roof?

An increasing number of people are investing in solar energy. More and more homes are having solar panels, or solar tiles, installed on their roofs. Of course, with such installations, the topic of planning permission and building regulations often comes to the surface.

Can I install solar panels if I don't meet building regulations?

Your local authority can also apply for a Confiscation Order to take away any money you've earned with your system - so there's absolutely no benefit to installing solar panels that don't meet building regulations. It's crucial that your solar installation follows all building regulations.

Can I install solar panels myself?

While it is possible to install solar panels yourself, it is highly recommended to engage a qualified and experienced installer. They possess the necessary expertise, knowledge of building regulations, and access to quality equipment. Hiring professionals ensures a safe and compliant installation that maximizes the efficiency of your solar panels.

Can solar PV be installed on warehouse roofs?

Installing solar PV on warehouse roofs means generating free electricity for the warehouse and adjacent buildings, such as offices. Warehouse and logistics firms can significantly reduce their energy bills with a solar PV system.

Do solar panels need planning permission in the UK?

In the UK, the installation of solar panels is subject to both planning permission and building regulations approval. While planning permission focuses on the aesthetics and impact of the installation on the local environment, building regulations primarily deal with the technical aspects of the installation.
